CHILD WATCH

By: Marian Wright Edelman
Founder And President Emerita
Children's Defense Fund

We must be the examples

When our children see the news right now, what are they thinking? We are at a moment where adults everywhere are reminded once again that we must all continue to strive to be the examples we want our children to emulate. We must teach them to value the truth and to know right from wrong. We cannot depend on anyone else.

I believe all great faiths, history, moral decency, and common sense beckon us anew to examine as individuals and as a people what we are to live by and teach our children by precept and example. I urge adults in America of all races, faiths, and political persuasions to make a difference by teaching our children to love themselves and others as God loves us. We must teach our children at every age how we expect them to treat themselves and others respectfully and fairly and then struggle to model that behavior daily no matter what people in power, public figures, or role models are doing or how often we fail to meet our own standards; get up, and try again.

To our children, I hope they will make a difference as they grow by being courageous, aiming high, and holding on to ideals of mutual respect; by caring and serving; by being honest and telling the truth; by persevering and not giving up no matter how difficult the challenge; by being determined and resourceful; by being grateful for the gift and wonders of life; by working together with others; by being compassionate and kind; by being nonviolent and working for justice and peace in their communities, nation, and world; and by being faithful and struggling for what they believe.

The arc of the moral universe is long, but it still bends towards justice. It is so important for adults not to let ourselves off the hook or to become apathetic or cynical by telling ourselves that nothing we do can make a difference. Every day, light your small candle. It just might be the one that sparks the movement to save our children's and our nation's future.

Lord, You told us, "Blessed are the poor in spirit."

The world says, "Blessed are those high on spirits."

You said, "Blessed are those who mourn."

The world says, "Blessed are those who maim and torture."

You said, "Blessed are the meek."

The world says, "Blessed are the arrogant and the strong."

You said, "Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness."

The world says, "Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for fleeting power and fame."

You said, "Blessed are the merciful."

The world says, "Blessed are the mercenary and punitive."

You said, "Blessed are the pure in heart."

The world says, "Blessed are the hard of heart."

You said, "Blessed are the peacemakers."

The world says, "Blessed are the weaponmakers."

You said, "Blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness' sake."

The world says, "Blessed are those who persecute for the sake of riches and race."

You said, "Blessed are you when people revile you and persecute you and utter all kinds of evil about you falsely on my account."

The world says, "Blessed are you when people applaud you and praise you for your own sake."

Help us, Lord, to find our way to You.

MILWAUKEE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Bulletin Board

ALBA, Pratt, and Stuart are MPS' newest IB schools

Three Milwaukee Public Schools (MPS) elementary schools — ALBA, Marvin E. Pratt, and Gilbert Stuart — will start the new year as the district's newest International Baccalaureate schools. The schools were authorized to offer the International Baccalaureate (IB) Primary Years Programme, after a rigorous, multi-year application process. The program encourages critical thinking and helps prepare students for postsecondary life in a global society.

ALBA (Academia de Lenguaje y Bellas Artes) is at 1712 S. 32nd St.; Marvin E. Pratt Elementary School is at 5131 N. Green Bay Ave.;

and Gilbert Stuart School is at 7001 N. 86th St. ALBA, Wisconsin's only bilingual Primary Years Programme school, is a charter school staffed with MPS teachers.

Parents and community members can learn more about MPS' new IB programs at open house events before the new school year begins.

- ALBA: Thursday, Aug. 10, 2023, 4:00 to 7:00 p.m.
- Pratt School: Thursday, Aug. 10, 2023, 2:30 to 4:30 p.m.
- Stuart School: Wednesday, Aug. 30, 2023, 5:00 to 7:00 p.m.

In all, MPS now has 11 International Baccalaureate school sites with 15 IB programs: five grade schools in the IB Primary Years Programme for students 3 to 12 years old, four in the Middle Years Programme for students 11 to 16, four in the Diploma Programme for ages 16 to 19, and two in the Career-related Programme, also for ages 16 to 19. Another school, Morse Middle School at 6700 N. 80th St., is an IB candidate for the Middle Years Programme and expected to be authorized in the coming years.

The other IB schools in MPS are:

- Academy of Accelerated Learning, 2727 S. 78th St. (the first IB Primary Years Programme school in Wisconsin)
- Lowell International Elementary School, 4360 S. 20th St.
- MacDowell Montessori IB High School, 6415 W. Mount Vernon Ave.
- Wedgewood Park International School, 6506 W. Warnimont Ave. (the first IB Middle Years Programme school in Wisconsin)
- Casimir Pulaski High School, 2500 W. Oklahoma Ave. (Diploma and Career-related)
- Ronald Wilson Reagan College Preparatory High School, 4965 S. 20th St. (Middle Years, Diploma and Career-related, and the first all-IB high school in Wisconsin)
- Rufus King International Middle School, 121 E. Hadley St.
- Rufus King International High School, 1801 W. Olive St. (one of the first IB schools in North America, having joined the program in 1978)

Students can begin the IB program in their primary careers and continue through secondary schooling, or they can begin the program at any time. Milwaukee Public Schools was the first district in the state to offer the entire IB program continuum.

Completing the Diploma Programme can give students a leg up in college, sometimes earning college credit while still in high school.

International Baccalaureate was founded in 1968 in Switzerland. IB now is in more than 5,000 schools in 156 countries and territories.

NO ACCESS WITH UT AFFORDABILITY.

INTERNET: A HUMAN RIGHT, NOT A LUXURY!

WE NEED TO HEAR FROM YOU

In Milwaukee, equal access to jobs, healthcare, education, and much more requires the internet. While investments are being made to expand broadband access, affordability remains a central barrier to internet adoption. Let's raise our voices and demand "No Access Without Affordability" to bridge the digital divide and create a more digitally inclusive community.

How to afford insulin as prices continue to rise

Insulin is critical for many people who have diabetes. Without it, it can be difficult or even impossible to keep the condition under control. Yet, it's becoming harder and harder for them to afford this life-saving medication. In fact, the price of insulin has increased significantly in the last decade and you might have to spend thousands per month to get what you need.

Five ways to afford your insulin

1. Ask about pharmaceutical assistance programs

A lot of drug manufacturers have programs in place that will help people afford their insulin. The criteria may differ from one program to the other, but your income is usually a determining factor.

Some programs are designed specifically for those who have limited or no insurance coverage. It's also important to pay attention to how often your access will need to be renewed as the assistance can last from 90 days to a year.

2. Look for copay coupons

This is another option that's offered by drug manufacturers. You can be issued coupons or drug cards depending on the manufacturer. Unlike the pharmaceutical assistance programs, the copay coupons aren't based on what you earn.

However, there may be some limitations if you're insured, though. With this program, you can get discounts when buying insulin or get the drug at a set monthly cost.

3. Check out program matching services

If you're looking for the best deal based on the specific insulin you use, then program matching services are your best bet. While these services don't provide discounts directly, they can easily show you the most affordable way to get your insulin.

4. Use coupon sites and loyalty programs

Coupon sites allow you to get insulin at a reduced cost. Some sites will also give you a discount card that you can use regularly. With these coupons, it's best to call around to see which pharmacies will accept them.

If you often purchase from a certain pharmacy, it might be worthwhile to find out if they have any loyalty programs that you can join.

5. Get qualified for government assistance

Depending on where you live, you might be able to qualify for a government assistance program that will help you afford insulin. These programs can vary from state to state but they're typically meant for those in a particular income bracket.

Why you shouldn't skip doses

There's more than your blood sugar at stake when you don't control diabetes. When it's allowed to run rampant, diabetes can affect multiple organs and systems in the body. Some of the health issues that are associated with poorly managed diabetes include vision loss, heart attack, stroke, gum disease, nerve damage, and kidney problems. Diabetes can also severely impact the circulation of blood around the body, resulting in the amputation of your limbs.

Why black people should pay attention

According to recent statistics, black Americans are 60 percent more likely to be diagnosed with diabetes than other ethnicities. Additionally, they're almost four times as likely to be hospitalized for conditions related to uncontrolled diabetes and have a 2.5 times higher risk of developing long-term complications.

Finally, black people are over three times more likely to be diagnosed with end-stage renal disease and twice as likely to die from diabetes than other ethnicities.

Despite those numbers, though, studies show that black Americans usually don't get the regular examinations that are recommended for those with diabetes. They're also more prone to have a less strict medication regimen.

Of course, different factors can influence why someone might not take their insulin as they should. If affordability is the issue for you, then it's a good idea to make use of any program for which you qualify.

Many black Americans are living with diabetes and a large percentage of them aren't getting the treatment they need. If you're concerned about the affordability of your insulin, it's a good idea to check out the programs listed above. The last thing you need to deal with is the complications that come from uncontrolled diabetes.

MKE Black Theatre Festival, Aug. 9-27: Check out the full schedule and get tickets

New this year is that the festival is three weeks long, instead of one week as in previous years.

Get ready film buffs, the 2023 MKE Black Theatre Festival schedule has been revealed.

Organizers said in a statement Tuesday, July 18, 2023, that the three-week-long "celebration of black arts and culture" will be held Aug. 9 - 26, 2023. Black Arts MKE is producing the event. New this year is that the festival is three weeks long, instead of one week, in previous years.

Festivities include two full-production plays, audition and play development workshops, a black history presentation, a youth and family night, auditions for Black Nativity, and a poetry set, organizers said.

Events are scheduled at venues across Milwaukee, including Marquette University, The Table at Alice's Garden, Wisconsin Black Historical Society and Museum, and Studio 4A at Marcus Center for the Performing Arts.

Tickets are available at <https://www.eventbrite.com/e/2023-mke-black-theatre-festival-mud-row-tickets-652147870837>.

Mud Row follows two generations of sisters in an area in the East End of West Chester, Pennsylvania called "Mud Row" while attempting to work through themes of race, class, love, loss and family, in order to break and bend generational patterns set before them. The production is a new collaboration with Marquette University's VIP Theatre Program.
