GMUL hosts'38th Annual Black & White Ball'

On Saturday, November 4, 2023, more than 1,100 Milwaukee-area business and community leaders, including many area CEOs, came together to attend the Greater Milwaukee Urban League's (GMUL) Black and White Ball, which featured a performance by Grammy-nominated R&B and jazz singer Patrice Rushen.

The sold-out event was held at the Baird Center in downtown Milwaukee. Rushen performed for about an hour. Her 1982 single, "Forget Me Not," received a Grammy Award nomination for Best Female R&B Vocal Performance.

The annual Black and White Ball began 38 years ago as a venue for the Greater Milwaukee Urban League to bring together a cross-section of business and community leaders and representatives across race, gender, and religion for an elegant evening of fun, entertainment, dancing and fellowship. According to its website, the Greater Milwaukee Urban League believes "genuine change and urban economic empowerment occur through diverse partnerships, collaborative efforts, and an equitable playing field."

The event's theme was "Strong Partners, Strong Communities." During the event, the group highlighted successful programs made possible by the support of Greater Milwaukee Urban League partners.

Milwaukee NAACP hosts'2023 Freedom Fund Dinner'

On Friday, October 27, 2023, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) Milwaukee Branch hosted its annual Freedom Fund Dinner, downtown at the Baird Center 400 W. Wisconsin Ave. The Freedom Fund Dinner is the annual signature event for the NAACP which is the only fundraiser for the branch. The funds generated by the event allow for the furthering of the organizations mission to ensure the political, educational, social and economic equality of rights of all persons and to eliminate racial hatred and racial discrimination. This year's keynote speaker was Dr. Hasan Kwame Jeffries (second row, right photo), who is a professor, historian, author and documentary filmmaker.

Rufus King honors former coaches, players in Athletic Hall of Fame

Building on a long list of accomplishments Coach Derek Gallagher added 'Hall of famer' to the list on November, 5, 2023.

At the 5th annual Rufus King Hall of Fame induction banquet, Gallagher was honored for 25 years of leadership and his ability to bring the best out of his players.

"My heart pounds," Gallagher said of his players. "That's a lot of love but that's the kind of kids that we have."

Between 1980 and 2005 Gallagher coached basketball and baseball at Rufus King. Under his leadership, the school's baseball team made four state tournament appearances and won 11 City Conference titles.

At Sunday night's event, Gallagher shared the stage with 12 other inductees, many of whom were his former players, like alumnus Matthew Anderson.

"The influence he had on me not only as a baseball player but as a person was huge: how to take criticism, not everything's going to go your way and how to battle adversity," Anderson said. "I'm very grateful, one of the best to do it."

It's an experience Rufus King Athletic Director Jeremy Nichols wants to see repeated for years to come. He said by honoring the past they're also securing the future—fundraising to help buy uniforms and equipment to fill district funding gaps.

"A lot of our students come from families of poverty or disadvantaged situations," Nichols said. "Making sure that they have the coaching, making sure they have the equipment that puts them on par with some of their suburban counterparts is really important."

Since the annual ceremony began Rufus King's athletic department has honored about 50 of their alumni and raised thousands for current students.

Milwaukee Police Chief Jeffrey Norman injured in car crash

Milwaukee Police Chief Jeffery Norman was injured in a crash following a press conference about reckless driving on Monday, November 6, 2023, police said.

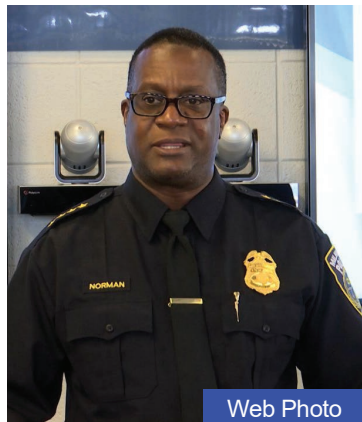

A TMJ4 crew was there for the press briefing and saw the chief sitting on the ground with his head bent over. An ambulance later whisked the chief away. The ambulance had a police escort. TMJ4 also saw the chief in a neck brace as he was being led into the ambulance:

According to a statement from Milwaukee Police, at around 10 a.m., Chief Norman and a 56-year-old male officer with 28-years of service were involved in a "collision" near 68th and Silver Spring.

Police said the chief and the other officer were brought to a local hospital for treatment of non-life-threatening injuries.

Police said the driver of the other vehicle remained at the scene and is cooperating with the investigation. The Milwaukee County Sheriff's Office is investigating the crash.

Being Frank

By: Frank James
Special to the Milwaukee Times

What would you do?

I recently received a message on social media from an African American, warning other African Americans about evil being among them. The evil came in the form of supposed DNA experiments on African American female embryos. I messaged the person back and asked a question. The question was simple, "What would you do if the roles were reversed?" The reply came immediately in the form of a question mark. I sent another message making it plain, "What would you do if the roles were reversed? Black and white people?" At the time of this writing I have not gotten a response back. A variation of the question is now posed to African Americans, "African Americans what would your actions toward white people be if you were running the USA and whites were the descendants of slaves?"

"White people are keeping us down and killing our young people!" You hear this cry in some form or fashion daily in the African American community. African Americans are quite justified in screaming about white racism and genocide in the USA. But, how would African Americans react if they had officially created the USA? How would African Americans react if they were the ex-slave holders and had to watch their ex-property sit in the front of the bus? How would African Americans react to having to share what they stole with the patsies they used to commit the crime? Would African Americans open their arms and embrace the former property that for decades they claimed we're only three-fifths of a man? Be honest readers in your response. Tell the truth and shame the devil.

The education system in the USA is dumbing down all people, and enforcing white supremacy on African Americans. With this statement in mind, African American, what form of education would you use for your former slave offspring? Would you give all the ex-slave descendants free education to the best schools? Now keep in mind African American, you are educating these ex-slave descendants to compete with your children. African American, would you educate these same descendants of slaves about how you killed and exploited their ancestors? Or would you educate these potentially violent slave descendants in a way to keep them docile, ignorant and serving you? Remember African American, tell the truth and shame the devil.

African American, would you make the workforce equal and let them take over your businesses? Would you sit back and watch the corporations you created by stealing concepts, be usurped by people who only 158 years ago were just something used to pull the plow? African American would you admit that many of the ideas and inventions that made your country a world power were stolen from their white ancestors? African American would you say, "Hey come on in White American! Take my plush house in the suburbs and I'll go live in a ghetto." Remember African Americans this isn't modern day 2023, this is a scenario where African Americans run the USA. With that in mind African American, how would you deal with keeping the economy firmly in your control? Shame the devil.

There are so many more aspects to this question I have posed to African Americans. Thinking people, of all races, have gotten the point of this article. A race of people will do whatever it takes to maintain the status quo, especially when they are on top. African Americans, do you really expect white people to just give you the keys to their kingdom and go meekly into oblivion? African American, would you go meekly into oblivion. Hold up African Americans. Do not answer that last question. Actions speak louder than words. African American actions towards each other in 2023, say it all.

MPS debuts classrooms that will produce more Montessori teachers

New credentialing classrooms that will produce more Montessori teachers for Milwaukee Public Schools (MPS) are ready for applicants. MPS held a ribbon cutting and open house on Thursday, November 2, 2023 at the classrooms in Grant Gordon Learning Center, 921 W. Meinecke Ave.

The school's third floor has been transformed to feel like home, with plants, art, and homey furniture, as Montessori classrooms typically are. It's also outfitted with the equipment used in the Montessori education method's hands-on instruction and learning.

Speakers at the ribbon cutting — including MPS Superintendent Dr. Keith P. Posley, MPS Chief Academic Officer Jennifer Mims-Howell, MPS Senior Director of Talent Management Michael Harris, Milwaukee Board of School Directors member Aisha Carr, and MPS Montessori Coordinator Abigail Rausch — noted that MPS first offered Montessori classes 50 years ago. The district today has the largest cluster of public Montessori schools in the nation and continues to invest in its Montessori program with the credentialing of new teachers.

MPS is recruiting applicants now for the session beginning in January. Potential applicants wishing more information may contact MPS Montessori Coordinator Abigail Rausch at rauschav@milwaukee.k12.wi.us.

The credentialing courses, which will be held evenings and weekends, are designed to accommodate working adults. The classrooms at Grant Gordon will be used to credential 20 teachers for grades 1-6. Teachers for grades 7-12 will be credentialed at Craig Montessori School.

The rooms at Grant Gordon are the only such credentialing classrooms in Wisconsin that are affiliated with Association Montessori Internationale.

The Montessori method of teaching was founded in Italy more than 100 years ago. It was based on observations of how children naturally learn, through hands-on exploration and by asking questions.

Six pillars of dementia prevention

Couch potatoes, beware! According to the Framingham Heart Study, a federally funded health research project that began in 1948, those who get little to no exercise have a higher risk of developing dementia in old age—by a whopping 50 percent.

Meanwhile, by participating in moderate physical activity daily — walking briskly, bicycling, gardening, or even dancing — you can stave off the risk of developing the disease associated with a decline in memory or other thinking skills severe enough to reduce a person’s ability to perform everyday activities.

“It doesn’t require intensive physical activity to decrease risk of dementia,” said senior researcher Dr. Zaldy Tan. He is the Director of the Cedars-Sinai Health System / Memory; Aging Program and Medical Director of the Jona Goldrich Center for Alzheimer’s; Memory Disorders, Cedars-Sinai Medical Center. “Even moderate amounts are fine.”

According to the study results, which were recently published in Journals of Gerontology: Medical Sciences, 3,700 participants aged 75 and older gained the most benefit from exercise against the early onset of dementia.

The takeaway? “You’re never too old to exercise and gain benefit from it,” Tan added. “These patients derive the most benefit from exercise because they are the ones who are at the age of greatest risk for dementia.”

As you may know, the brain tends to shrink with age. So, it makes perfect sense that people who exercised on a regular basis, tended to have larger brain volumes than those who were inactive, researchers found.

As for how they came across their results, study authors measured how often the participants exercised, and tracked them over a decade—breaking the study population down into fifths that ranged from the desk-bound to the full of zip.

Overall, investigators discovered that the one-fifth containing the most inactive people were 50 percent more likely to develop dementia than the other four-fifths. In other words, even a little exercise helps! During the study, 236 people developed dementia.

Dementia prevention

Of course, exercise is just one way to prevent the common illness. According to the Alzheimer’s Research & Prevention Foundation, there are 6 pillars of dementia (and Alzheimer’s) prevention:

1. Mental stimulation: Learning new things throughout life will help keep you mentally sharp. Read something new, watch a new documentary, learn a new skill, try a new board game, learn a new instrument, etc.

2. Quality sleep: An increasing number of studies have linked poor sleep to higher levels of a sticky brain-clogging protein, beta-amyloid, which interferes with sleep. “Other studies emphasize the importance of uninterrupted sleep for flushing out brain toxins.”

3. Stress management: While chronic stress has an overall negative impact on your body, it takes one heck of a toll on the brain, causing shrinkage in the area of the brain known as the hippocampus, hindering nerve cell growth, and increasing your risk of dementia. Combat these effects by participating in daily relaxation activities.

4. Social engagement: An active social life consisting of “tests of memory and cognition” creates less room for isolation as we get older.

5. Regular exercise: At least 150 minutes of moderate exercise each week.

6. A balanced diet: Stock up on fruit and veggies. Get plenty of omega-3 fats and by all means, avoid trans fats and saturated fats which can cause inflammation and produce free radicals which are hard on the brain.

Naturally, the more you implement these pillars in your daily life, the healthier your brain will be... longer.
