Photos by Kim Robinson

On Sunday, November 19 and Monday, November 20, 2023, Holy Redeemer Institutional Church of God in Christ said good-bye to Milwaukee's Bishop Sedgwick Daniels at his home-going celebration at the church, 3500 W. Mother Daniels Way. Bishop Daniels was 64 years old and died on Sunday November 12, 2023. The celebration was a 2-day event with people from all over the country in attendance. Everyone who spoke had great stories to tell about their life experience with Bishop Daniels, some sad and some inspirational; there were tears and laughter. "Bishop was a good man. I have known him for more than half of my life," said Green Jackson

Jr., Elder at Good Samaritan Westside Community Church, who was ordained by Daniels. Elder Jackson said Daniels was an icon. "You can't fill the shoes of a man of character like Bishop Daniels. So he taught us to be who we are, to continue to strive for excellence, and to continue to seek knowledge. And that's what we all should continue to do." Church members, elders and elected leaders celebrated Daniels, his contributions to the church, feeding the hungry, giving people homes, and educating children. Bishop Daniels was a positive force in this city and he will be truly missed.

Thankful on Thanksgiving

It is the end of November 2023. It is the start of the holiday season. The Thanksgiving turkey will lead to Christmas trees and gift giving. This is a truly pleasant time of year in the USA. This Thanksgiving African Americans have much to be thankful for, and here are a few of these blessings.

African Americans should be thanking their lucky stars that slavery is over. Slavery was the norm in this country until 1865. In the scant 158 years since the abolishment of slavery African Americans have had time to heal and embrace the pursuit of the American Dream. African Americans have seemed to forgive their former slave masters for their actions taken in the past. African Americans have embraced their freedom and over the decades even gained a form of assimilation into U.S. culture and society. African American progress has advanced from being former slaves to President and Vice President of the United States. African Americans, bask in your progress and be thankful on Thanksgiving that slavery is

African Americans, celebrate the advancements in equality that you have achieved. No longer are you forced to be victims of Jim Crow laws. The front of the bus is open to African Americans as well as whites. African Americans are no longer confined to ghettos where poverty rules along with high crime rates. African Americans can move into plush suburban dwellings and watch their children grow into fine U.S. citizens next to white people. African Americans can openly vote and even argue in public with white people and not have to worry about a cross being burned on their front lawn. African Americans should smile and sing The Star Spangled Banner as they carve the Thanksgiving turkey.

African Americans should be proud of the integration of all pro sport leagues. African Americans are a force in all sports – from the NFL to NBA. On Thanksgiving day there were three football games played showcasing African American prowess, with three out of six teams competing on Thanksgiving three will have African American starting quarterbacks. This is a classic example of African American advancement. Sports has changed the paradigm in African American childhood dreams and goals. Sports has made African American youth dreams of being a millionaire important and possible. No longer do African American youth have to focus on academics. As long as African American youth show athletic prowess their future is bright. As a result, on Black Friday many African Americans will be shopping for gym shoes or some form of athletic wear as gifts. As you pass the cranberry sauce during Thanksgiving dinner tell the person next to you, how good life is.

African Americans should celebrate the way social media has assisted African American integration into U.S. culture. Social media has enabled African Americans to keep abreast of other people and what they are doing in their lives. This helps African Americans be selfless and focus on others issues, instead of fixing their own. This selfless act by African Americans has led to social media becoming another way to fame and fortune in the world. Social media has made everyone an expert on every subject from relationships to politics. There is always someone on social media to assist when an African American is confused about a topic or needs some guidance. African American on Thanksgiving Day, be sure to post a selfie of you and the chitterlings on Instagram or TikTok. The hashtags should 'be thankful and love for all'.

I could go on about the many things African American should be thankful for. There is hip hop music. You have the new grey or blue weave fashion that is sweeping the USA for African American females. Alternative lifestyles are helping African American males embrace U.S. culture. As the 2023 holiday season on the way, pause and smile because you have much to be thankful for.

The holidays and alcohol are a bad mix

As we head into the winter months, you may notice a shift in your own or your loved ones' emotions and moods. Beginning in late fall and up until spring, many people experience the winter blues, seasonal depression, or Seasonal Affective Disorder (SAD).

SAD can hit Milwaukeeans particularly hard because of the harsh temperatures, heavy snowfall, and less natural sunlight, which keep many folks inside their homes, socially isolated, and not physically active. The American Psychiatric Association explains that Seasonal Affective Disorder may cause the following symptoms:

- Feeling sad or having a depressed mood
- Loss of interest or pleasure in activities once enjoyed
- Changes in appetite; usually eating more, craving carbohydrates
- Change in sleep habits; usually sleeping too much
- Loss of energy or increased fatigue despite increased sleep hours
- Feeling worthless or guilty
- Difficulty thinking, concentrating, or making decisions
- Thoughts of death or suicide

substances like alcohol to snap out of a funk and feel livelier. Plus, alcohol is readily available at social interactions like holiday parties and family gatherings. But drinking socially or alone can actually make seasonal depression worse.

We encourage everyone to get involved in activities this winter that boost your well-being without alcohol. Meet a friend for lunch or coffee; volunteer or help a friend or neighbor; take a walk along one of our amazing trails; learn a new skill through Milwaukee Recreation, or commit to a rewarding project or hobby. These small but significant steps will help you look forward to each day, feel productive, and chase the winter blues away.

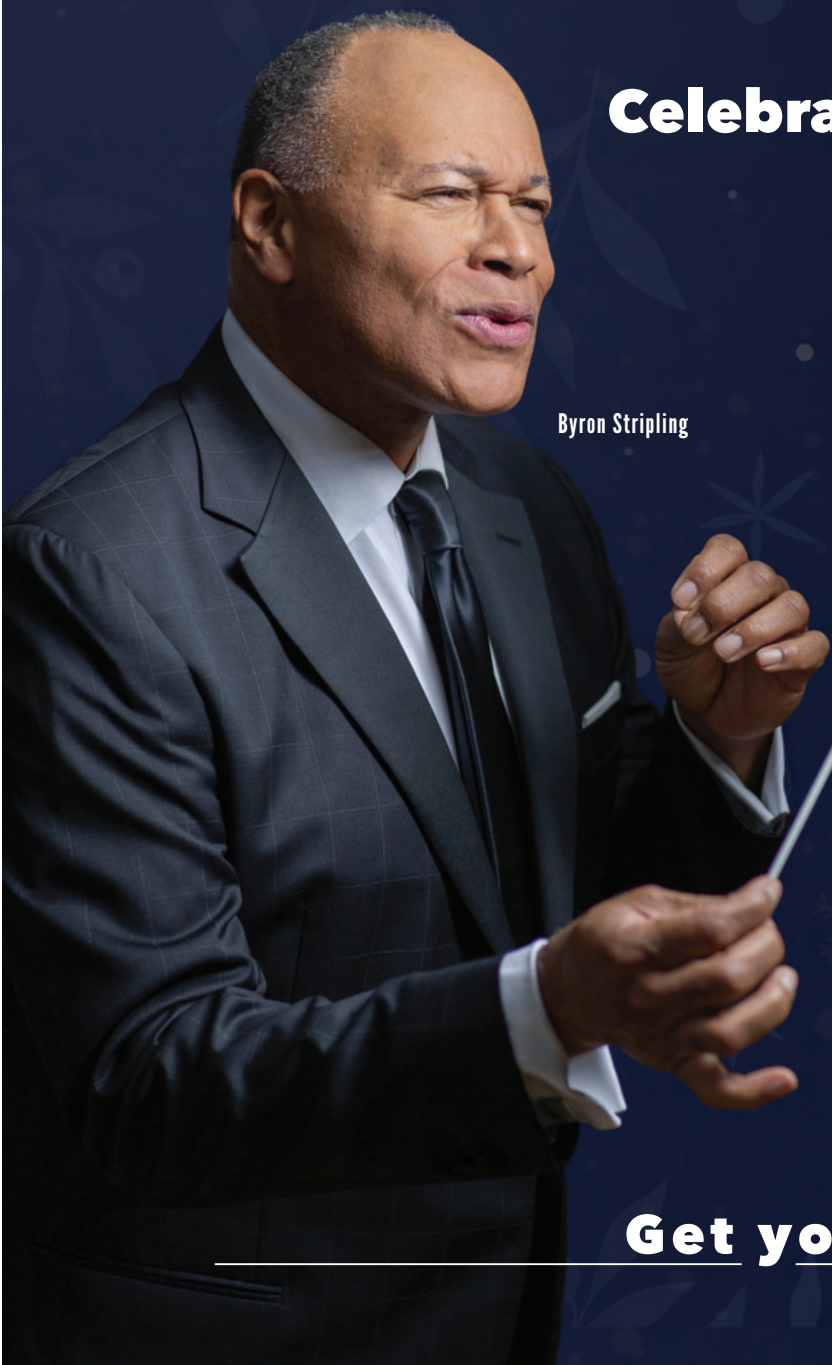

For more information on how to navigate depression and avoid substance abuse, check out resources available at risedrugfreemke.org.
