Anthem Blue Cross Blue Shield hosts 'Minds in Motion' at Flores Hall

On Friday, September 26, 2025, Anthem Blue Cross Blue Shield (Anthem) presented "Minds in Motion" at Flores Hall, 2997 S. 20th St. "Minds in Motion" is a transformative program for all ages, offering a clear blueprint for navigating mental health challenges. More than just a program, it serves as a platform to empower individuals, strengthen personal well-being, and inspire hope for a brighter, healthier future.

Key speakers included Leroy Butler, former Green Bay Packer and Hall of Famer; Leia Rios; Pascual Rodriguez; and Dr. Kemba Banyard, who shared personal stories and practical strategies for resilience, confidence, and community support.

The program continues with a series of upcoming events designed to reach even more people across the community. The next event will take place on Saturday, October 26, 2025, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at South Division High School, 1515 W. Lapham Blvd., Milwaukee, WI 53204.

Brewers beat Chicago Cubs to win NLDS, move on to face the LA Dodgers for NLCS title

On Saturday, October 11, 2025, the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Chicago Cubs 3-1 in the final game of the National League Division Series (NLDS) at American Family Field. After the club's first two wins at home, the series shifted to the Cub's home turf at Wrigley Field where the Brewers would suffer back to back losses tying the series 2-2. So the October 11 game would not only be the tie-breaker game but the win for the series as well as who would go on to the National League Championship Series (NLCS).

William Contreras and Andrew Vaughn each hit go-ahead solo home runs and Brice Turang shrugged off a miserable series to mash a huge insurance shot while five Brewers pitchers -- including All-Star closer Trevor Megill as the starter and a huge dose of rookies Jacob Misorowski and Chad Patrick -- allowed only six baserunners while cobbling their way to 27 outs. Abner Uribe gets Carson Kelly to ground out securing Milwaukee's Game 5 win over the Cubs at 3-1 sending the Brewers to the NLCS Series where they will face the LA Dodgers.

Soul legend D'Angelo, 51, dies after private battle with pancreatic cancer

Source: peoplemagzine.com

Neo-soul legend and "Brown Sugar" hitmaker D'Angelo has died after being diagnosed with pancreatic cancer, a source confirms to PEOPLE magazine. He was 51.

D'Angelo (born Michael Eugene Archer) died in New York City on Tuesday, October 14, 2025.

"He was in hospice for two weeks but had been in the hospital for months," the source told PEOPLE of the star.

"The shining star of our family has dimmed his light for us in this life," the singer's family told PEOPLE in a statement. "After a prolonged and courageous battle with cancer, we are heartbroken to announce that Michael D'Angelo Archer, known to his fans around the world as D'Angelo, has been called home, departing this life today, October 14, 2025."

The statement continued: "We are saddened that he can only leave dear memories with his family, but we are eternally grateful for the legacy of extraordinarily moving music he leaves behind. We ask that you respect our privacy during this difficult time but invite you all join us in mourning his passing while also celebrating the gift of song that he has left for the world."

DJ Premier, who collaborated with D'Angelo on the 1998 track "Devil's Pie," shared a post via X (formerly Twitter) on Oct. 14 lamenting the news.

"Such a sad loss to the passing of D'angelo. We have so many great times. Gonna miss you so much. Sleep Peacefully D' Love You KING," DJ Premier wrote.

The Richmond-born son of a Pentecostal minister began playing the piano at the age of 3, and by 5 years old D'Angelo was playing the instrument with his father at church. A few years later, he began playing the piano at his grandfather's Pentecostal church.

Growing up, he and his two cousins formed the group Three of a Kind and began performing at local talent shows. By 16, he formed another band called Michael Archer and Precise with his brother, Luther.

That year, D'Angelo landed a slot during Amateur Night at the Apollo, where he sang "Feel the Fire" by Peabo Bryson. While he didn't win at the time, he returned to the stage the following year to perform "Rub You the Right Way" by Johnny Gill in 1991 and took the first place.

With his monetary prize, he returned to Richmond, bought a four-track recorder and started writing what would become most of the songs that made up his 1995 debut album Brown Sugar. Brown Sugar peaked at No. 4 on the U.S. Billboard Top R&B Albums chart went platinum within a year of its release. It also earned D'Angelo four Grammy Award nominations.

In 2000, D'Angelo released his sophomore album Voodoo, which peaked at No. 1 on the U.S. Billboard Top R&B Albums chart and the U.S. Billboard 200 chart. The album also won a Grammy Award for Best R&B Album and his song "Untitled (How Does It Feel)" received Best Male R&B Vocal Performance, along with a nomination for Best R&B Song.

As he became more regarded as a sex symbol, D'Angelo struggled with drug and alcohol addiction. He was arrested in 2005 and charged with possession of cocaine and marijuana and driving while intoxicated. A week after being sentenced in September of that year, he was involved in a car accident, and was rumored to be critically injured.

While D'Angelo continued collaborating and performing throughout the years, he didn't release his third studio album, the acclaimed Black Messiah, until 2014. The album peaked at No. 1 on Billboard's U.S. Indie Store Album Sales and U.S. Top R&B/Hip-Hop Albums charts. It also won a Grammy Award for Best R&B Album and is considered a modern neo-soul masterpiece.

Throughout his career, D'Angelo collaborated with artists including Questlove, Common, Q-Tip, J Dilla, Lauryn Hill, Raphael Saadiq and Angie Stone.

In 2024, D'Angelo collaborated alongside Jay-Z on the track "I Want You Forever," which was featured on The Book of Clarence soundtrack. In a 2024 interview with Rolling Stone's Music Now podcast, Saadiq had also confirmed that D'Angelo was working on new music.

Supreme Court takes up challenge to Voting Rights Act that could affect control of Congress

The Supreme Court is taking up a major Republican-led challenge to the Voting Rights Act, the centerpiece legislation of the civil rights movement, that could gut a key provision of the law that prohibits racial discrimination in redistricting.

The justices on Wednesday are hearing arguments for the second time in a case over Louisiana's congressional map, which has two majority black districts. A ruling for the state could open the door for legislatures to redraw congressional maps across the South, potentially boosting Republican electoral prospects by eliminating majority black and latino seats that tend to favor Democrats.

A mid-decade battle over congressional redistricting already is playing out across the nation, after President Donald Trump began urging Texas and other Republican-controlled states to redraw their lines to make it easier for the GOP to hold its narrow majority in the U.S. House of Representatives.

The court's conservative majority has been skeptical of considerations of race, most recently ending affirmative action in college admissions. Twelve years ago, the court took a sledgehammer to another pillar of the landmark voting law that required states with a history of racial discrimination to get approval in advance from the Justice Department or federal judges before making election-related changes.

The court has separately given state legislatures wide berth to gerrymander for political purposes, subject only to review by state supreme courts. If the court now weakens or strikes down the law's section 2, states would not be bound by any limits in how they draw electoral districts, a result that is expected to lead to extreme gerrymandering by whichever party is in power at the state level.

Just two years ago, the court, by a 5-4 vote, affirmed a ruling that found a likely violation of the Voting Rights Act in a similar case over Alabama's congressional map. Chief Justice John Roberts and Justice Brett Kavanaugh joined their three more liberal colleagues in the outcome.

That decision led to new districts in both states that sent two more black Democrats to Congress.

Now, though, the court has asked the parties to answer a fundamental question: "Whether the state's intentional creation of a second majority-minority congressional district violates the Fourteenth or Fifteenth Amendments to the U.S. Constitution."

In the first arguments in the Louisiana case in March, Roberts sounded skeptical of the second majority-Black district, which last year elected Democratic Rep. Cleo Fields. Roberts described the district as a "snake" that stretches more than 200 miles to link parts of the Shreveport, Alexandria, Lafayette and Baton Rouge areas.

The court fight over Louisiana's congressional districts has lasted three years.

The state's Republican-dominated legislature drew a new congressional map in 2022 to account for population shifts reflected in the 2020 census. But the changes effectively maintained the status quo of five Republican-leaning majority white districts and

Being Frank

By: Frank James
Special to the Milwaukee Times

The thought guard

The National Guard has been deployed in various cities around the USA. There has been outrage and also support over the action. The high crime and violence in certain areas is the reason for turning the National Guard loose in these cities. The National Guard can only patrol and deal with the bodies of malcontent citizens. The USA needs the Thought Police to truly make America great again.

The National Guard can come into a city and restore a semblance of peace via their presence. Military personnel can be a great deterrent to foolish acts and crime. The citizens will either love the fact that the Guard is there, ignore, or loathe the Guard presence. If the citizens are against the presence of the Guard, they will harbor ill will. This is where the effectiveness of the Guard is lowered. The issue with the majority of US citizens is not what they are physically doing, but how they think. The Thought Police is the solution.

The Thought Police were the true enforcers in George Orwell's masterpiece, 1984. The Thought Police monitored the citizens minds for any thought that was against the rule of the governing party, or deemed against society. Ignorance and idiotic thought is what has brought the USA to its knees. A version of the Thought Police created and turned loose in the USA may solve many issues the country has.

I know what you are thinking, "This fool is crazy." Hear me out. Racism has held this country in its macabre clutches since the formation of USA. The Thought Police would see to it that anyone thinking such unpatriotic thoughts would be dealt with. How smooth would the USA run if racism didn't exist? How would eliminating racism affect the education system? How would daily life in the USA look if racism was a non factor? The Thought Police would bring the answers to these questions and more to reality.

The Thought Police would eliminate much of the crime that has held American society back by targeting a key source of protection criminals enjoy. The unpatriotic thoughts pertaining to crime that many Americans harbor. The thought process of, "I have to protect my family no matter what," many Americans believe. This thought process protects criminals because their families cover, or ignore the criminal actions. Everyone in a community knows who is doing the crime no matter what race they are. Yet, criminals continue to prosper and keep the cycle of crime going in many communities. The Thought Police would weed out the persons who believe in family over the safety and peace of an area. How much better would all cities in the USA be if citizens did their civic duty and reported crime? How peaceful would the inner city be if families didn't accept crime from relatives and instead reported the perpetrators? The Thought Police would remove this idiotic protective shield that families use to cover relatives who commit crime.

The US educational system would flourish after a decade of effective thought enforcement from the Thought Police. Many students go to school with the wrong thoughts rolling through their heads. Students would happily apply themselves academically after seeing the effectiveness of the Thought Police in the community. The glorification of ignorance and drug culture would be gone, because the people who perpetrate these heinous crimes would be extinct. Students would learn how to use their minds and understand their talents to be successful Americans. One can only imagine the positive effect the Thought Police would have on student mental health.

Deploying the National Guard is a step that needs a follow up to be effective. The Thought Police is the measure needed to transform the USA back to the greatness its citizens crave, but do not know how to get to. It is thoughts that lead to unpleasant situations. Thought can be an enemy or friend. The Thought Police would ensure the thoughts of US citizens are the latter.

Rosemary Ollison:
KNOW MY HEART
August 15 - December 7, 2025

Experience an inspiring textile collection by an acclaimed Milwaukee artist.

The first solo exhibition of a self-taught creator and storyteller Ollison showcases 30+ years of her rich and intricate fiber practice. The collection, now on exhibit at the Wisconsin Museum of Quilts & Fiber Arts, features a dynamic array of compositions — wall hangings, tapestries, quilts, rugs, drawings and more — all borne from repurposed materials.

- Ollison's talents have been recognized through a Mary L. Nohl Fellowship and City of Milwaukee Artist of the Year honors ... and this new WMQFA exhibit aims to elevate her artwork on a national level.
- Her work has been featured at the Museum of Wisconsin Art, Lynden Sculpture Garden, Northwestern Mutual's Corporate Collection, the Chipstone Foundation and Milwaukee Art Museum.
- Support for this exhibition is provided by the National Endowment for the Arts, Greater Milwaukee Foundation, American Quilt Study Group, Wisconsin Arts Board with support from the National Endowment for the Arts, Judy Hearst – Coldwell Banker Realty, Nirmal Raja and Victoria Findlay Wolfe.

Money for college is available—fill out the FAFSA for Fall 2027

High school seniors—it's time to apply for financial aid for college and technical schools. The first step is to fill out the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). This application shows students their eligibility for grants and loans, and is used by colleges across the country to develop each student's financial aid package.

Milwaukee Public Schools (MPS) kicked off the opening of the FAFSA season with an event on October 13 at Washington High School. MPS Superintendent Brenda Cassellius, along with Milwaukee Mayor Cavalier Johnson, Milwaukee County Executive David Crowley, MATC President Anthony

Cruz, and UWM Chancellor Thomas Gibson, encouraged students to submit their FAFSA as soon as possible.

All MPS families should be aware that completion of the FAFSA is a graduation requirement for the Class of 2026. Filling out the FAFSA often shows students that college can be affordable through grants and loans and opens a pathway to college or technical school. More information and the application link are available at mpsmke.com/FAFSA. When filling out the application, be sure to click on the link for the 2026–27 school year.

Families and students who have questions about the FAFSA or the graduation requirement should meet with a high school counselor or College and Career Center advisor to learn more. After a meeting, families who are still unable to submit the FAFSA may request a waiver for this graduation requirement.

MPS has College and Career Centers in 21 high schools to help students fill out the FAFSA, explore colleges, write essays, and complete college applications. Hours vary by school. MPS students can contact any College & Career Center to get the help they need from a college and career advisor. For more information about College & Career Center locations, hours, and services, visit the MPS College & Career Centers page at <https://mps.milwaukee.k12.wi.us/en/Programs/College-and-Career-Centers.htm>.

Students who wish to fill out the FAFSA should visit <https://studentaid.gov/>. Applicants are cautioned to use only this website and to avoid any websites that charge a fee.

MPS high school enrollment is open through Nov. 3, 2025

HIGH SCHOOL
NOW THROUGH
MONDAY
NOV. 3, 2025
mpsmke.com/hsenroll

It's time to choose a high school! Eighth-grade students and families are invited to learn about programs and apply to an MPS high school for the 2026–27 school year.

With nearly 30 high school options in the district, MPS has an ideal learning situation for every student's needs and future career goals. Throughout high school, students can prepare for career areas such as technology, engineering, arts, music, agriculture, college prep, construction, culinary arts, skilled trades, and more. Students in grade 8 should explore schools now and make their choices for this important transition.

To find a high school that best fits your needs, visit How to Select a School at <https://mps.milwaukee.k12.wi.us/en/Schools/How-to-Select-a-School.htm> on the district website and select by location or program. To find open house events at high schools and access the online enrollment form, visit the High School Enrollment page at <https://mps.milwaukee.k12.wi.us/en/Schools/How-to-Apply/High-School-Enrollment.htm>. Enrolling now offers the best opportunity for a chance at your first-choice school—some schools fill up quickly!

All students will apply through a short online form.

Families new to MPS will need to provide the student's 7th grade report card, 7th grade attendance record, and standardized test scores. Current MPS 8th-graders do not need to upload forms in the application. Students will also be required to submit an essay in response to a reading selection. Current MPS 8th-graders will complete this requirement in school this fall.

For more information, please call the Department of Student Services at (414) 475-8159.

Substance use and misuse prevention month

October is Substance Use and Misuse Prevention Month, the perfect time to check in with yourself and reevaluate your relationship with alcohol and other drugs. In difficult times, the desire to drown your sorrows in excessive amounts of alcohol can seem appealing, but continuously turning to tequila or vodka as a coping mechanism can have long-term consequences.

A note on language: use vs. Misuse

Substance use is as simple as it sounds: using alcohol or other drugs. People may use substances for a number of reasons, including pain management, stress relief, or socialization. Substance misuse, however, reflects the difference between healthy use and unhealthy use.

Misuse can refer to binge drinking, using prescription drugs in any way other than prescribed, or repeated use of a substance even when it's causing you harm.

What you can do

Prevention education builds critical life and social skills, including decision-making, peer pressure resistance, and coping with stress. And it all begins with a conversation. Whether you're a parent, teacher, or mentor, talking to the young person in your life about alcohol and other drugs doesn't have to be scary. According to Get Smart About Drugs, the following opportunities can serve as teaching moments:

- If you see your young person smoking, have an open conversation with them about why they're using commercial tobacco.
- While watching a movie or TV show, ask your youth if they think it makes using drugs look cool.
- If you see an interesting news story that involves substances, discuss it openly.

In addition, you can go beyond talking to acting to prevent substance misuse. For example, you can lock up or safely store your medication so that it can't be used by anyone else. You can also get rid of unwanted medication by taking it to a pharmacy, which should have a take-back program.

And if you are concerned that your own substance use is turning into misuse, help is available. Contact 211 for substance use treatment and recovery services that are right for you. Asking for help is a sign of strength, not weakness.

If you or someone you know is experiencing a substance use issue or mental health concern, please call 988.

Why we need to talk about fibroids—and stop normalizing the pain

Source BlackDoctor.org

Uterine fibroids are one of the most common reproductive health conditions—yet they remain shrouded in silence, stigma, and misinformation. Even though up to 80 percent of women will develop fibroids at some point in their lives, the condition is still widely misunderstood and often goes undiagnosed until symptoms become severe.

So, why does a condition this common remain hidden in plain sight? BlackDoctor spoke with Eve LePage, Reproductive Health Specialist at Clue, a science-based, data-driven menstrual and reproductive health app, to discuss what we can do to change the conversation.

Why fibroids remain a “silent” condition

Fibroids often don't cause symptoms, which means many people never know they have them unless discovered during imaging for another reason. If they aren't causing issues, they usually don't require treatment—adding to the sense of fibroids being “silent.”

Another factor is the gender health gap.

“For decades, medical research mostly excluded women, which delayed our understanding of conditions like fibroids,” LePage tells BlackDoctor.

To make things more confusing, many people panic when they hear the word “fibroid” and immediately think of cancer, even though the vast majority of fibroids are benign (non-cancerous). “When you add in the broader taboo around menstruation and reproductive health, it's easy to see why fibroids often go undiscussed. Many people are reluctant to seek help or share their experiences, which reinforces the silence and stigma,” LePage adds.

Why some fibroids cause symptoms—and others don't Fibroid symptoms vary depending on size and location. Even small fibroids can cause heavy or irregular bleeding if they grow inside the uterine lining.

- Larger fibroids can press against nearby organs, causing pain, bloating, or urinary and digestive problems.
- Some fibroids can affect fertility or cause pregnancy complications.

Others remain small and grow slowly. “They may grow slowly, remain small, or sit in areas of the uterus that don't interfere with bleeding, pain, or organ function. In these cases, people can live their whole lives without knowing they have fibroids, and they're often only discovered by chance during a routine exam, pregnancy scan, or imaging for something unrelated,” LePage explains.

Warning signs to watch for

If you notice any of these common symptoms and they are affecting your quality of life, it's important to check in with your healthcare provider.

- Heavy or prolonged periods (sometimes leading to anemia)
- Pelvic pain or pressure (a dull ache or fullness)
- Frequent urination or constipation (due to organ pressure)
- Difficulty conceiving or pregnancy complications
- “Fibroid belly”—a visibly enlarged abdomen

It's also important to trust your instincts.

“If you feel your concerns are being minimized, seek a second, or even third, opinion. Keep a detailed record of your symptoms (tracking with Clue can help here!) and bring it with you to appointments. Don't be afraid to ask direct questions about diagnosis and treatment options,” LePage advises.

Why fibroids go undiagnosed

Too often, fibroid symptoms are brushed off as “normal period problems.” This cultural minimization delays care until symptoms become severe.

“...Many of these symptoms touch on areas people often feel uncomfortable talking about, like periods, fertility, or body changes. That silence can add to the stigma and leave people living with pain, heavy bleeding, or visible changes in their bodies without seeking help,” LePage notes.

Systemic disparities also play a role: Black and Latina women are more likely to have fibroids but less likely to receive timely diagnosis or treatment due to healthcare bias and unequal access.

“When diagnosis is delayed, fibroids can grow larger, limiting treatment options...Many people may face more severe complications like anemia from heavy bleeding or ongoing pain that disrupts daily life,” LePage said.

The good news? Awareness and self-tracking can make a difference. “Paying attention to your cycle, especially changes in flow, pain, or duration, can help you notice early signs of fibroids,” she adds.

Busting common fibroid myths

Misinformation can have a real impact on reproductive health, leading people to delay care or accept misdiagnosis. LePage highlights the myths you should ignore:

Myth: All fibroids require treatment.

Truth: Many can be left alone if they're not causing symptoms.

Myth: Hysterectomy is the only solution.

Truth: Minimally invasive options like myomectomy, uterine artery embolization, and radiofrequency ablation exist.

Myth: Fibroid treatment always causes infertility.

Truth: Most treatments preserve fertility, and in some cases, removing fibroids can even improve it.

Treatment options beyond hysterectomy

Fibroid treatment is highly personalized, and most options do not involve removing the uterus or causing infertility. Options include:

- Medication: Birth control, anti-inflammatories, or hormone-blocking drugs to manage bleeding or pain.
- Minimally invasive procedures: Uterine artery embolization, radiofrequency ablation, or hysteroscopic myomectomy.
- Surgery: Myomectomy (removing fibroids while keeping the uterus) or hysterectomy (removing the uterus, usually a last resort).

Why black women are disproportionately affected

Black women are about three times more likely to develop fibroids than white women, and they often
