Ribbon cutting marks the opening of another apartment development in Harambee neighborhood

On October 3, 2025, longtime community leader LaMarr Franklin started the first week of his 80s by cutting the ribbon on the new LaMarr Franklin Lofts, an affordable housing complex named in his honor at the corner of North King Drive and Dr. William Finlayson Street. "I am very proud and beyond words," Franklin said at the ribbon cutting. "Thank you for this."

The $16.7 million development, led by KG Development Group and the Martin Luther King Economic Development Corporation (MLKEDC), took about five years to complete. The new development marks the latest push for affordable housing in the Harambee neighborhood. The LaMarr Franklin Lofts are joined by multiple housing developments, adding to the neighborhood's affordable housing stock. The now-completed MLK Apartments above the King Drive Library, the upcoming Union at Rose Park, and the LaMarr Franklin lofts, combined, will provide more than 200 new apartment units to the neighborhood by the end of 2026, according to information from the developers of each project.

Brewers win first two postseason match-ups against Cubs in NLDS series

On Saturday, October 4, 2025, Jackson Chourio went 3 for 3 and drove in three runs in the first two innings before departing with a hamstring injury as the Milwaukee Brewers trounced the Chicago Cubs 9-3 in their NL Division Series opener. That's just about the only thing that went wrong for the Brewers, who grabbed a 9-1 lead in the first two innings in a match-up of NL Central rivals.

Chourio became the first player to have three hits in the first two innings of a playoff game. Milwaukee added three more runs in the second. Caleb Durbin delivered a two-run single before Chourio's infield hit made it 9-1.

On Monday, October 6, 2025, the Brewers, short of starters by season's end but long on smarts and creativity in the area of run prevention, spent weeks putting together a pitching plan for Game 2 of the National League Division Series. Four batters into that plan, they found themselves down three runs, but won anyway, 7-3 over the Cubs on a power-packed Monday night at American Family Field.

The Brew Crew will head to Wrigley Field in Chicago on Wednesday, October 8, 2025 for game three of the series.

Milwaukee mayor, police chief, push for red light cameras

A proposed bill would allow Milwaukee to install up to 75 traffic cameras to monitor speeding. The cameras can only be used at high-crash locations.

Tuesday, October 7, 2025, state legislators came to Milwaukee for a public hearing on proposed Wisconsin Senate Bill 375. The bipartisan bill would allow the city to install red light cameras and issue tickets by mail to drivers who run red lights or speed excessively.

If passed, the bill allows Milwaukee to install up to 75 of the cameras, with five in each aldermanic district. According to the bill, the cameras can only be used at high-crash locations. Traffic tickets would be mailed to drivers who speed more than 15 miles per hour over the speed limit or run the red light.

Milwaukee Mayor Cavalier Johnson said the measure would help curb reckless driving.

"Just last year, 74 people lost their lives to crashes in Milwaukee. Now, that's compared to 164 people who lost their lives in traffic crashes in the state of Wisconsin. So, if you look at that, that means that nearly half of Wisconsin's traffic fatalities happened here in our city.

We cannot accept this loss," Johnson said. "Traffic safety cameras are a proven, evidence-based solution."

The public hearing, held at the Summerfest main office building, lasted for hours, with the majority of speakers in favor of the measure.

"This is important. This is important to people's lives. How would you feel waking up and your leg was gone? Mine was taken from me. I didn't have a choice," Tina Ortiz said.

Ortiz walked up to testify on crutches. The Milwaukee mother said she was t-boned by a drunk driver in 2018 near Hampton and Melvina.

"She hit me, like the detective said, perfectly, that I hit the median and I flipped three times," Ortiz said. "I'm laying there. She took off. Left me for dead."

Ortiz said doctors gave her a 10 percent chance of survival. She lived, but lost her left leg. She said a witness ended up tracking down the driver who hit her.

"If I didn't have that person, how would I know who did this to me?" Ortiz said.

Her story was one of dozens in testimony heard by state lawmakers.

"Passing this bill will slow everybody down," said Gloria Shaw, whose son was killed in a hit-and-run crash in downtown Milwaukee in 2023.

"These cameras may have helped. My case is still unsolved. I have no justice. Nobody saw nothing. Nobody's saying nothing. This could have helped. This could have given me a picture of who did it," Shaw said.

Against the measure, Ron Jansen, an activist in Milwaukee, raised equity concerns with a red light camera system.

"These systems lead to a ton of downstream problems, like increased debt for families, and other social costs that can be difficult to overcome," Ron Jansen said. "Clearly, there are better, cheaper, more robust methods that can be used to increase safety on a higher return on investment."

The proposed bill received some pushback from Senator Van Wanggaard, challenging Milwaukee Police Chief Jeffrey Norman, asking why officers can't do what cameras would.

"This is happening every day in the city of Milwaukee because we're not making traffic stops. So, where is the accountability for the traffic unit?" Wanggaard said.

Norman pointed to the department's staffing challenges and a need to prioritize responding to violent crimes. He said traffic cameras would assist the department in reducing reckless driving.

"Whatever tool we can use to help enhance the work that we're doing. I am all for it. And so when we talk about in regards to the work that they do, they work day and night, through rain, sleet, snow and shine to enforce and hold those accountable," Norman said. "Technology can be in more places at once than officers can physically cover."

The Senate Committee on Transportation and Local Government still needs to schedule the proposed bill for a vote within the committee before it would go before the full Senate for a vote.

The proposed bill doesn't allocate funding for the measure, but essentially gives the city permission to install the cameras. Figuring out funding would be on the city. Money collected from tickets issued is required to go to funding the cameras or other traffic-related causes.
