Zion Hill Missionary Baptist Church hosts its Annual Veterans Day Luncheon

The Veterans Ministry of Zion Hill Missionary Baptist Church hosted its annual "Veterans Day Luncheon Celebration" on Sunday, November 9, 2025, at the church at 1825 W. Hampton Ave. The guest speaker was Tiffany Kohler, Commander of the Wisconsin Disabled American Veterans

Those honored at this year's event were Calvin Bruce, James Brown, Deacon Thomas Powell, Barbara Powell, Jowanna Epps, Frederick Wilder, Mark Wilhette, Alderwoman Larrisa Taylor (District 9), Tiffany Kohler-Commander DAV, Dr. Rev. Russell B. Williamson, George Warner, Carol Warner, Barbara Robinson, Robert Robinson, Wayne Thomas, Ed Staples, and Leon Staples. There were special mentions for Dr. Rev. Russell B. Williamson and James Brown. Musical selections were performed by Michelle Jordan and Tiffany Terry. Chandra Staples and Alma Leatherwood were the program chairpersons.

Northcott Neighborhood House, Inc. hosts 'Feeding Milwaukee Live'

On Wednesday, November 5, 2025, Northcott Neighborhood House, 2460 North 6th St., partnered with Jammin' 98.3 for "Feeding Milwaukee Live." The event was to collect food and monetary donations to help Northcott restock their pantry. With the government shutdown putting a pause on federal food aid (or SNAP benefits), families right here in Milwaukee are feeling the strain. Local food banks and pantries are stepping up — but they can't do it alone.

There was also information on how to receive food assistance if you or someone you know needs help. The first 100 people who donated received a pair of tickets to Summerfest 2026, as well as tickets to see New Edition, Boyz II Men, and Toni Braxton at Fiserv Forum.

Northcott's food pantry provides stock boxes to over a 1000 senior citizens monthly and provides food pantry access to citizens in the 53212 and 53206 zip codes. Northcott can be found by those who need emergency food on 211 website or by calling 211 or Northcott directly at (414) 372-3770.

Senate approves bill to end the shutdown, sending it to the House

Source: AP

The Senate passed legislation Monday to reopen the government, bringing the longest shutdown in history closer to an end as a small group of Democrats ratified a deal with Republicans despite searing criticism from within their party.

The 41-day shutdown could last a few more days as members of the House, which has been on recess since mid-September, return to Washington to vote on the legislation. President Donald Trump has signaled support for the bill, saying Monday that "we're going to be opening up our country very quickly."

The final Senate vote, 60-40, broke a grueling stalemate that lasted more than six weeks as Democrats demanded that Republicans negotiate with them to extend health care tax credits that expire Jan. 1. The Republicans never did, and five moderate Democrats eventually switched their votes as federal food aid was delayed, airport delays worsened and hundreds of thousands of federal workers continued to go unpaid.

House Speaker Mike Johnson urged lawmakers to start returning to Washington "right now," given shutdown-related travel delays. "We have to do this as quickly as possible," said Johnson, who has kept the House out of session since mid-September, when the House passed a bill to continue government funding.

How the stalemate ended

After weeks of negotiations, A group of three former governors — New Hampshire Sen. Jeanne Shaheen, New Hampshire Sen. Maggie Hassan and Independent Sen. Angus King of Maine — agreed to vote to advance three bipartisan annual spending bills and extend the rest of government funding until late January. Republicans promised to hold a vote to extend the health care subsidies by mid-December, but there was no guarantee of success.

Shaheen said Monday that "this was the option on the table" after Republicans had refused to budge.

"We had reached a point where I think a number of us believed that the shutdown had been very effective in raising the concern about health care," she said, and the promise for a future vote "gives us an opportunity to continue to address that going forward."

The legislation includes a reversal of the mass firings of federal workers by the Trump administration since the shutdown began on Oct. 1. It also protects federal workers against further layoffs through January and guarantees they are paid once the shutdown is over.

In addition to Shaheen, King and Hassan, Democratic Sen. Tim Kaine of Virginia, home to tens of thousands of federal workers, also voted Sunday in favor of moving forward on the agreement. Illinois Sen. Dick Durbin, the No. 2 Democrat, Pennsylvania Sen. John Fetterman and Nevada Sens. Catherine Cortez Masto and Jacky Rosen also voted yes. All other Democrats, including Senate Democratic leader Chuck Schumer of New York, voted against it.

The moderates had expected a larger number of Democrats to vote with them as 10 to 12 Democratic senators had been part of the negotiations. But in the end, only five switched their votes — the exact number that Republicans needed. King, Cortez Masto and Fetterman had already been voting to open the government since Oct. 1.

Many Democrats call the vote a "mistake"

Schumer, who received blow back from his party in March when he voted to keep the government open, said he could not "in good faith" support it after meeting with his caucus for more than two hours on Sunday.

"We will not give up the fight," Schumer said, adding that Democrats have now "sounded the alarm" on health care.

Independent Sen. Bernie Sanders of Vermont, who caucuses with the Democrats, said giving up the fight was a "horrific mistake." Sen. Chris Murphy, D-Conn., agreed, saying that voters who overwhelmingly supported Democrats in last week's elections were urging them to "hold firm."

House Democrats swiftly criticized the Senate.

Texas Rep. Greg Casar, the chairman of the Congressional Progressive Caucus, said a deal that doesn't reduce health care costs is a "betrayal" of millions of Americans who are counting on Democrats to fight.

Others gave Schumer a nod of support. House Democratic leader Hakeem Jeffries had criticized Schumer in March after his vote to keep the government open. But he praised the Senate Democratic leader on Monday and expressed support for his leadership throughout the shutdown.

"The American people know we are on the right side of this fight," Jeffries said Monday, pointing to Tuesday's election results.

Health care debate ahead

It's unclear whether the two parties would be able to find any common ground on the health care subsidies before a promised December vote in the Senate. House Speaker Mike Johnson, R-La., has said he will not commit to bringing it up in his chamber.

On Monday, Johnson said House Republicans have always been open to voting to reform what he called the "unaffordable care act" but again did not say if they would vote on the subsidies.

Some Republicans have said they are open to extending the COVID-19-era tax credits as premiums could skyrocket for millions of people, but they also want new limits on who can receive the subsidies. Some argue that the tax dollars for the plans should be routed through individuals.

Senate Appropriations Committee Chairwoman Susan Collins said Monday that she's supportive of extending the tax credits with changes, like new income caps. Some Democrats have signaled they could be open to that idea.

"We do need to act by the end of the year, and that is exactly what the majority leader has promised," Collins said.

Other Republicans, including Trump, have used the debate to renew their years-long criticism of the law and called for it to be scrapped or overhauled.

In a possible preview, the Senate voted 47-53 along party lines Monday not to extend the subsidies for a year. The majority of Republicans allowed the vote as part of a separate deal with Democrats to speed up votes and send the legislation to the House.

Rosemary Ollison: KNOW MY HEART

August 15 - December 7, 2025

Experience an inspiring textile collection by an acclaimed Milwaukee artist.

The first solo exhibition of a self-taught creator and storyteller Ollison showcases 30+ years of her rich and intricate fiber practice. The collection, now on exhibit at the Wisconsin Museum of Quilts & Fiber Arts, features a dynamic array of compositions — wall hangings, tapestries, quilts, rugs, drawings and more — all borne from repurposed materials.

- Ollison's talents have been recognized through a Mary L. Nohl Fellowship and City of Milwaukee Artist of the Year honors ... and this new WMQFA exhibit aims to elevate her artwork on a national level.
- Her work has been featured at the Museum of Wisconsin Art, Lynden Sculpture Garden, Northwestern Mutual's Corporate Collection, the Chipstone Foundation and Milwaukee Art Museum.
- Support for this exhibition is provided by the National Endowment for the Arts, Greater Milwaukee Foundation, American Quilt Study Group, Wisconsin Arts Board with support from the National Endowment for the Arts, Judy Hearst – Coldwell Banker Realty, Nirmal Raja and Victoria Findlay Wolfe.

‘Listen to Your Body’: Dr. Mitzi Williams on why MS gets overlooked in blacks

Source: BlackDoctor.org

Multiple Sclerosis (MS) is an autoimmune disease that affects the central nervous system, potentially causing various symptoms including vision problems, numbness, and weakness. However, recent insights from a Genentech survey reveal that MS can present more aggressively in black and Hispanic communities, with unique challenges for diagnosis and treatment access.

BlackDoctor.org spoke with neurologist and MS specialist Dr. Mitzi Williams (pictured) to discuss why MS gets overlooked in the black community and what can be done to improve MS outcomes.

How MS Presents in black and Hispanic communities

While MS symptoms are generally consistent across populations—affecting vision, sensation, and mobility—severity and presentation can vary in black and Hispanic communities. For instance:

- Optic Neuritis: This vision-affecting symptom tends to be more pronounced in Hispanic patients, potentially impacting daily life earlier in the disease.

- Transverse Myelitis: Often observed in black patients, this spinal cord inflammation can cause numbness or weakness. Among black patients, symptoms often appear more intensely and require urgent care.

- Multifocal Symptoms: Black patients may experience multiple symptoms at MS onset, which increases the risk of delayed diagnosis and treatment.

“Most people with MS start with one symptom that sends them to the doctor, but black patients may be more likely to experience multiple symptoms at once, which may delay seeking care for an initial relapse,” Dr. Williams shared.

When to seek medical attention

Seeking prompt medical evaluation for neurological symptoms is important. Minor symptoms, such as numbness or tingling, can be easily overlooked, often dismissed as temporary issues like stress.

“I think the most important thing is to listen to your body and not ignore symptoms. Often, people will dismiss things, saying, ‘My arm went numb, and I thought it was a pinched nerve; I thought it would go away.’ If you have neurological symptoms, especially if they last for a period of time, like days or weeks, you should be evaluated by a medical professional to make sure it’s not something more serious,” Dr. Williams noted.

“Additionally, there’s a big issue with symptom management—disease-modifying treatments help prevent further damage but don’t address symptoms that are already present. If symptoms are ignored or not managed effectively, it can severely impact quality of life,” Dr. Williams added.

Barriers to MS care and diagnosis in minority communities

Access to MS diagnosis and treatment can be challenging for black and Hispanic patients, often due to systemic issues. Some of the most common barriers include:

Delayed diagnosis

“Access to specialty care is definitely an issue. Many people reported in the survey that they had delays in diagnosis, which is something we commonly see in minority communities. There’s still a prevailing belief that MS primarily occurs in young white women, but statistics suggest the risk may actually be higher in black women, at least in the United States. This misconception can lead to delayed diagnoses,” Dr. Williams noted.

Limited access to specialists

Dr. Williams notes that the availability of neurologists and neuroimmunologists who specialize in MS is often limited in underserved communities.

“In underserved areas, patients may not know to look for an MS specialist or may not have one nearby, which means they miss out on optimal treatment,” Dr. Williams said.

Inadequate treatment

As MS treatment options expand rapidly, general neurologists may rely on outdated medications. Minority patients without access to MS specialists might not receive optimal treatment, increasing the risk of complications and diminished quality of life.

“There’s also a lack of support for necessary services like physical and occupational therapy, which are significant barriers as well,” Dr. Williams added.

Financial and support services barriers

“Financial barriers can also impact a person’s ability to start disease-modifying therapy, which we know slows disease progression,” Dr. Williams shared.

Challenges in treatment and clinical research

The lack of representation in clinical trials further impacts MS treatment in minority communities. Without sufficient data on the effectiveness of therapies among black and Hispanic patients, treatment plans might be less tailored. Dr. Williams suggests increasing minority participation in clinical trials to address this gap and create evidence-based treatment regimens for these populations.

Family planning and MS

Family planning is a significant consideration for black patients with MS, especially given the high rates of maternal health complications in this community.

“Adding a chronic illness like MS can complicate this further. Fortunately, we now have better data to help us navigate treating people who are planning to start families. However, patients need a specialist with expertise. In the past, we would just stop MS treatments during family planning, but now we can often continue certain medications safely with the right specialist guidance,” Dr. Williams noted.

Finding the right MS care specialist

Seeking specialized care is key. Dr. Williams advised doing your research.

“We research everything from cars to schools, and healthcare should be no different. There are resources like the National MS Society and MS-focused organizations that list specialists by area. Also, I encourage people to reach out to local MS communities, such as ‘We Are Ill,’ an organization for black women with MS. These communities can be invaluable for finding specialists nearby or understanding what questions to ask during appointments. Even if someone doesn’t have easy access, seeing a specialist at least once can help ensure their treatment is on the right path,” she shared.

Living with MS presents unique challenges, but actively participating in your care can make a significant difference in your experience and outcomes. As Dr. Williams noted, it starts with empowerment.

“Be an active part of your healthcare team—take notes, prepare for appointments, and ask questions. Being proactive can lead to better outcomes, especially when patients and providers work as a team on decision-making rather than just following instructions,” Dr. Williams concluded.

Downtown Milwaukee will radiate holiday cheer during annual kickoff extravaganza on Nov. 20 at Pere Marquette Park

Kickoff ceremony to feature fireworks, giveaways and performances from local entertainers

Downtown Milwaukee will radiate holiday cheer as Milwaukee Downtown, BID #21 celebrates the 27th annual Milwaukee Holiday Lights Festival presented by Johnson Financial Group. The six-week celebration kicks off at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 20 at Pere Marquette Park, 900 N. Plankinton Ave. Live music, dance acts, holiday treats and fireworks make up the Milwaukee Holiday Lights Festival Kickoff Extravaganza presented by Johnson Financial Group, a festive jumpstart to the city's holiday season running through Jan. 1, 2026.

The bright night of festivity will begin at 5:30 p.m. with pre-show entertainment by Kid Boogie Down. Following this dance warm-up, guests will enjoy performances by DJ Mr. NY, characters from Milwaukee Repertory Theater's "A Christmas Carol," Anita's Dance Center, The Squeezettes, select cast members from Cirque du Soleil's "'Twas the Night Before..." Marquette University's Gold 'n Blues, Christopher Gilbert, Willow Newell – Miss Wisconsin, and Jenny Thiel. Santa and Mrs. Claus will also make an appearance. The evening will wrap up with a fireworks show, shortly before 7 p.m. Guests in attendance will receive free cocoa and cookies and can take part in free Jingle Bus rides, operated by KB Excursions, after the fireworks.

After the Nov. 20th kickoff, residents and visitors can view the light displays, coordinated by Milwaukee Downtown, BID #21, through Jan. 1. Four Downtown parks will be transformed into winter wonderland scenes: "Community Spirit Park" at Cathedral Square Park; "Santa's Celebration Square" powered by We Energies" at Zeidler Union Square; "Felices Fiestas!" at Pere Marquette Park and "Slice of Ice Lights" at Red Arrow Park. Street decorations will also adorn three Downtown thoroughfares, including Wisconsin Avenue, which will feature an 18-block stretch of silver and gold chandeliers suspended above each intersection.

Visitors can see all the sights aboard the Jingle Bus, a 40-minute narrated tour that offers a no-fuss way to view all of Downtown Milwaukee's offerings during the holiday season. Tours will depart from the Festival's new Warming House at Red Arrow Park, 920 N. Water St. Jingle Bus operating hours are 5 p.m. to 9 p.m., Fridays through Sundays, Dec. 5 – 28. Tickets are $8 per person (excluding tax and fees). Advanced ticket sales are encouraged. Spanish tours are offered on select nights. Discounted parking is available for riders at the BMO Tower garage, 771 N. Broadway, for $3.24 with validation from the Jingle Bus info table.

For more information on the Milwaukee Holiday Lights Festival Kickoff Extravaganza and to purchase Jingle Bus tickets, visit www.milwaukeeholidaylights.com.

The 2025 Milwaukee Holiday Lights Festival is sponsored by Johnson Financial Group, We Energies Foundation, Ideal Property Management, MGIC, KB Excursions, Verizon, Biggby Coffee, Interstate Parking, Educators Credit Union, National Association of Letter Carriers – Pioneer Branch 2,

Serving Older Adults, WISN 12, B97.3 FM, Visit Milwaukee, Food Fight Restaurant Group, City of Milwaukee, Milwaukee County Parks, and Milwaukee Downtown, BID #21.
