County Executive David Crowley hosts public safety roundtable on community violence intervention efforts

On Monday, January 26, 2026, County Executive David Crowley led a discussion to highlight the Credible Messenger Program that aims to improve public safety and support local youth involved in the justice system through expanding mentorship, resources, and job opportunities. During the roundtable at the Marcia P. Coggs Health & Human Services Center, County Executive Crowley was joined by community partners, local leaders, and representatives from the Milwaukee County Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) to discuss how to continue addressing public safety challenges through community violence intervention initiatives, youth engagement efforts, and greater partnership with state and federal leaders.

The Credible Messenger Program promotes public safety by intervening in gun violence and supports positive outcomes for youth, with an emphasis on those in the youth justice system. Since its inception, the program has worked with youth at all points of system involvement by coordinating with partners—community-based organizations, public health entities, academic institutions and government agencies—and is staffed by individuals with lived experience and previous justice involvement who support youth through transformative mentoring.

In its first year, youth involved in the program reported a 77 percent success rate for recidivism and pro-social behavior. The program has served more than 280 youth since its inception, partnering with six community agencies including an all-girls intervention team.

The program's focus on transformative mentorship has been notably effective, with 66 percent of the youth receiving at least 26 weeks of mentoring—essential for positive outcomes according to research, delivering more than 2,000 combined hours of mentoring in 2023. The collaborative effort includes Milwaukee Community Crossroads, Youth Advocate Program, GLOW414, Running Rebels, Westcare Wisconsin, and 414Life.

The success of the Credible Messenger Program underscores the value of community-based approaches in creating safer, more supportive environments for Milwaukee County's youth. Protest forms in Milwaukee after man with Wisconsin ties shot, killed by Border Patrol agent in Minneapolis

Saturday, January 24, 2026 shooting in Minneapolis of 37-year-old Alex Pretti sparked protests nationwide, including in Milwaukee.

Family identified the 37-year-old man shot and killed by a Border Patrol agent as Alex Pretti, a Minneapolis nurse who was protesting against the Trump administration's immigration crackdown.

WBAY confirmed through the Green Bay Area Public School District that Pretti graduated from Preble High School in Green Bay.

After graduating high school, he went to the University of Minnesota, graduating in 2011 with a bachelor's degree in biology, society and the environment, according to family.

The Department of Homeland Security alleged that Pretti approached border patrol agents with a handgun, and "violently resisted" when agents tried to disarm him. The Department of Homeland Security said a federal Border Patrol agent killed Pretti in self-defense. Local officials dispute that allegation. Multiple videos of the confrontation show federal agents spraying Pretti with a substance and pinning him to the ground before the shooting.

Pretti was a legal gun owner and did not have a criminal record, according to Minneapolis police Chief Brian O'Hara. Minnesota's gun laws allow open carrying of a handgun if the gun owner has a valid permit.

This is the second deadly shooting this month of an American citizen in Minneapolis at the hands of a federal agent. Investigators are still reviewing what led up to Saturday's shooting. Pretti was killed just over a mile away from where Renee Good was shot.

Milwaukee Protests

Protesters gathered in downtown Milwaukee on Jan. 24 in response to the shooting of Pretti.

Around 100 protesters organized at Red Arrow Park around 2 p.m., then marched to the downtown ICE facility on Broadway and Knapp Street.

A separate gathering was also held Saturday night near Bremen and Burleigh streets in Milwaukee's Riverwest neighborhood. There, residents brought candles and flashlights as a sign of solidarity with Minnesota.

Trump's Response

ing, saying, in part, federal agents are in Minnesota because of "massive monetary fraud" and "illegal criminals that were allowed to infiltrate the state through the democrats' open border policy."

Trump also lashed out at Minnesota Gov. Tim Walz and Minneapolis Mayor Jacob Frey. "This is the gunman's gun, loaded (with two additional full magazines!), and ready to go – What is that all about? Where are the local Police? Why weren't they allowed to protect ICE Officers?" he wrote. "The Mayor and the Governor called them off? It is stated that many of these Police were not allowed to do their job, that ICE had to protect themselves — Not an easy thing to do!"

He continued by saying, "LET OUR ICE PATRIOTS DO THEIR JOB! 12,000 Illegal Alien Criminals, many of them violent, have been arrested and taken out of Minnesota. If they were still there, you would see something far worse than you are witnessing today!"

Milwaukee aldermen seek tougher penalties for negligent landlords

Following the emergency evacuation of a Milwaukee apartment building without heat or water, aldermen are advocating for harsher penalties on unresponsive landlords.

Milwaukee aldermen are advocating for tougher penalties on negligent landlords after a 36-unit apartment building at North 28th Street and Wisconsin Avenue was evacuated due to a lack of heat and water, owned by Berrada Properties Management.

City inspectors evacuated the building on Thursday after discovering the absence of essential services for days.

"No one deserves to live like that," Milwaukee Alderwoman Sharen Moore said Monday.

She's one of three Milwaukee aldermen at a news conference Monday, citing the emergency evacuation as an example of unresponsive landlords dragging their feet, with tenants suffering the consequences.

The building is one of 11 residential properties deemed uninhabitable this winter due to a lack of heat, marking a nearly 60% increase from last winter. Aldermen argue that current fines, typically a few hundred dollars, are ineffective for landlords with repeated code violations.

"Fines of a couple of hundred dollars here, a couple of thousand dollars there, is just absorbed by landlords taking in $10 million, $20 million a year in rent," Alderman Robert Bauman said. "So we need stiffer fines."

Bauman is proposing radically increasing the maximum fines, creating a category for what he calls "chronic" offenders.

"If a landlord qualifies as a chronic offender, of health safety and wellness provisions, in terms of rental properties, we would have the authority to issue significant fines, meaningful fines, $10,000, $20,000, $50,000,"

Bauman said Monday.

Berrada Properties Management responded in a statement to WISN 12 News, stating that the building's design, which includes an open garage space underneath part of the first floor, which they are now enclosing, contributed to the problem. They claimed they were close to completing repairs and had space heaters on the way when the city evacuated the building.

Tenant advocates express concern that tenants are often reluctant to report issues, such as a lack of heat, due to fear of landlord retaliation.

"Some seniors are like, if I tell I'm not going to have anywhere to go," said Crystal West, a tenant advocate for the community group Amani United.

Although state law prohibits retaliation, she said many tenants fear that reporting issues could lead to homelessness.

"We all know someone right now in this city that is living in a catastrophe apartment and don't want to leave it, because again, what is the alternative?" West said.

In a statement to WISN 12 News, Berrada added they are "treated differently than other property owners in terms of the time permitted to make repairs." The statement continued, "The focus on Berrada is unfair and unwarranted ... Berrada is working diligently to get tenants back in their homes."

MPS faces tough decisions in 2026–27 budget

Milwaukee Public Schools (MPS) has begun planning for the 2026–27 budget, a process that comes amid significant financial challenges for the district with tough decisions ahead. While no proposals or recommendations have been made, district leaders are closely reviewing spending, advocating for increased state funding, and preparing to engage staff, families and the community in the months ahead. Superintendent Dr. Brenda Cassellius shared the following message with colleagues to outline the current budget landscape and the steps ahead, including opportunities for input as this work continues.

"Dear Colleagues,

As we begin building the 2026–27 budget, my pledge is to keep our incredible students and amazing staff at the center. At this early stage, no decisions, proposals, or recommendations have been made. At the same time, it is clear that decisions about next year's budget will not be easy.

Our MPS community must be our priority. Times are hard right now and I know you all feel it.

Unfortunately, after recently finishing audits of the past three fiscal years, we now know how significant our current financial challenges are. We face economic challenges on multiple fronts, from declining birthrates, underinvestment from the state, to the loss of funds that we had from federal pandemic relief, and inflationary increases for costs like health-care and utilities. Without voters' referendum support, the picture would be worse, but it's still incredibly challenging.

As I shared with the Board this week, we are undertaking a careful review of our spending at Central Services, including reviewing all contracts, but this alone will not be enough to address the gap we face. We may need to look at additional steps to control the budget even within the current year, including a potential freeze on hiring positions with exceptions for classrooms and student-facing positions.

I will continue to fight for more revenue — especially with the news that the state has an even bigger budget surplus than expected — but there is no guarantee we will receive additional resources. I ask for your help in that fight. We need to turn our attention to Madison and demand better for our children and workers who give so much to invest in Wisconsin's future.

Preparing for next year's budget will span the next several months. In the coming weeks, we will be inviting you and the community to listening sessions on the budget to share your voice. We also look forward to collaborating with our union partners on identifying savings. I want to hear from you in a way that helps us productively navigate the challenge ahead of us.

I am committed to respecting all of the hard work you do every day, showing up for you and our students every day. If we work together I am certain we can put MPS on a track of long-term stability and success for the young people and families we serve.

Being Frank

By: Frank James
Special to the Milwaukee Times

Believe and trust you

No matter how hard or confusing the situations in life become there is one person you have to believe in. That person is not a family member, or lover. The person you have to be able to trust and believe in is you. This fact is something no one else can install in you. You have to believe the person in the mirror can get you through anything.

In these laughable times many people go to anything else but themselves for confidence. You can tell this fact by the popularity of social media platforms. In 2026 you have people basing their confidence on information/advice they get from strangers on Instagram. The number of views and likes of a post, or picture, can send a person to mental heaven or purgatory in a matter of seconds. People have to take back the power over their life. The first step is to believe in yourself.

People all over the world spend untold amounts of money to have someone tell them about themselves. Professionals in the mental health field are being swamped with the number of insecure people in the world. This is not to say that mental health professionals are not needed. What is being said is, "If you can't see any worth in the person you are and believe in yourself, no amount of therapy can help you." You have to have some mental groundwork for the treatment to take root in. Believing in yourself can greatly assist in the use of any information a mental health professional offers.

The number of people who rush into romantic relationships seeking someone to make them whole/confident is staggering. No spouse in the world can give you the confidence to believe in yourself. A positive spouse can boost your belief in yourself to higher levels. The previous should be a two way road where you boost your spouses confidence/belief in themselves to higher levels too. This is how you create power couples that seem to enjoy their relationships and life together, while other flounder in misery. Two people who believe in themselves combined to form a power unit that is unstoppable.

This can't happen if one person is full of self doubt and uncertainty. The person who is uncertain will be a drain on the one who does believe in themselves. Disaster in the form of divorce, or domestic violence, is often the result.

Relying on another person for anything for too long gives the person power over you. This is one way manipulative people get their hooks into people who do not believe in themselves. It's really an old form of "game." A manipulator gets an unconfident person to believe that they have their best interest in mind. The person who doesn't believe in themselves find themselves hinging on the words of the manipulator. This can lead to a plethora of consequences ranging from mental abuse to sexual exploitation. The previous scenarios can be avoided by simply believing in yourself. Keeping the power of your life in your hands.

The concept of believing in yourself is so simple it is complex. Many people get exploited because they only put value in complex answers, or solutions. Simplicity is the basis of all profound results. Think: 1+1 is the start of basic addition. Without this basis would Calculus be possible?

Docomomo Wisconsin and Milwaukee Public Library present 'From the Archives Lecture: Wisconsin's first black architect, Alonzo Robinson, Jr.'

Docomomo Wisconsin, in partnership with the Milwaukee Public Library (MPL) and UW-Milwaukee Cultural Resource Management (CRM), is pleased to invite the public to a special From the Archives lecture celebrating Black History Month: "Wisconsin's First Black Architect: Alonzo Robinson, Jr." The program will take place Saturday, February 14, 2026, from 2:00-3:30 PM at Milwaukee Central Library, Centennial Hall - Loos Room (733 N. Eighth Street). Admission is free and open to the public.

MPL is pleased to welcome back UWM architectural historian Justin Miller, who will explore the remarkable 40-year career of Alonzo Robinson, Jr., Wisconsin's first licensed black architect. Robinson made profound and lasting contributions to Milwaukee's black community and to the city as a whole, designing buildings that combined modern architectural principles with deep civic purpose.

Robinson's best - known works include Central City Plaza, recently saved from demolition through a nationally recognized preservation effort, and the Milwaukee Fire Department Administration Building, which was recently named and dedicated in recognition of his achievements. His legacy also lives on in numerous neighborhood churches, homes, businesses, and municipal buildings throughout Milwaukee, reflecting his commitment to accessible, community-centered design.

This program builds on an award-winning preservation initiative led by Docomomo Wisconsin and the Milwaukee Preservation Alliance which received a national Advocacy Citation of Merit from Docomomo US at the Modernism in America Awards 2025 for its role in preserving Central City Plaza. The project was also featured nationally this year by the National Trust for Historic Preservation, spotlighting Robinson's work and its cultural significance to Wisconsin's architectural history.

Following the lecture, Kim Robinson, son of Alonzo Robinson, Jr., will join the program for a Q&A session, offering personal insight into his father's life, work, and enduring legacy.

As part of the event, Docomomo Wisconsin will present a pop-up exhibit highlighting Robinson's architecture and the organization's ongoing advocacy for Modernist preservation across the state. Attendees will also have the rare opportunity to view original architectural drawings and materials from MPL's Archives, bringing Robinson's design process and vision into direct focus.

This From the Archives lecture is presented in collaboration with the Milwaukee

Public Library, UW-Milwaukee Cultural Resource Management, AIA Milwaukee, the Wisconsin Architectural Archives, and Docomomo Wisconsin, continuing a shared commitment to inclusive storytelling, archival research, and public engagement.

UNCF Milwaukee Mayor's Masked Ball scholarship event February 7TH

Event provides support for local college students

The 11th Annual UNCF (United Negro College Fund) Milwaukee Mayor's Masked Ball is Saturday, February 7, 2026. The event begins at 6 pm at the Pfister Hotel, 424 E. Wisconsin, Avenue, Milwaukee, WI 53202. It is hosted by the Honorable Cavalier Johnson, Mayor of Milwaukee.

The Mayor's Masked Ball raises scholarship dollars for local students attending Historically Black Colleges and Universities supported by UNCF. Support is also provided to students attending non-UNCF colleges.

Over the past ten years, the UNCF Mayor's Masked Ball has raised nearly $1.6-million to support UNCF student scholarships.

"As Milwaukee continues to attract new businesses and create new opportunities, it is important to have a highly qualified workforce," said

Mayor Johnson. "Support from the community helps encourage local young people to return to Milwaukee and to begin professional careers that benefit them, their families, and the greater community." "The Milwaukee community continues to provide important support to students through its support of UNCF," said UNCF Chicago Development Director Latina Brooks. "We encourage individuals and organizations to reach out to UNCF to get more information on scholarships and tickets to help local students."
